Summary

This document describes the XML format used for electronic filing of income statements.

1 Document information

1.1 Target group

This document is intended for software companies and information providers using their own systems to generate income statement files.

The technical description is available only at the Skatteverket web site (ref[1]); it is not available in print.

1.2 Terms and definitions

XML = eXtensible Markup Language. A standard for structured text based representation of information.

XML Schema = A set of rules describing permitted syntax and grammar in an XML document. A schema file has the suffix .xsd.

Parse = Divide a text into parts and interpret their meaning.

Meta data = Data about data, that is, a description or statement about a piece of data.

2 Table description

This document describes the terms included in the electronic filing of income statements.

The XML schema, including the XML string, are based on the details in this description.

Explanation of the columns in the following tables:

- Term/Field
 - Description: Description or field name from the corresponding form.
 - Code: Field code in applicable cases.
- Element name in XML: The element found in the XML schema.
- No.: Number of occurrences of the current group/term in the enclosing group. The following variants occur:
 - 0-1: Zero or one occurrence, i.e., the group/term is not compulsory. Marked "minOccurs="0"" in the schema. The description column specifies when the group/term should and should not be notified.
 - 1: One occurrence, i.e., the group/term is compulsory. No marking the schema (default).
 - 0-n: Zero or more occurrences. Applies only to groups. Marked "minOccurs="0" maxOccurs="unbounded"" in the schema.
 - 1-n: One or more occurrences. Applies only to groups. Marked "maxOccurs="unbounded"" in the schema.
- Type: Specifies if it is a group ("Grp") or a term with a reference to the value store (Appendix 1).
- Controls
 - ID: Identification label applied to the control.
 - Description: Textual description of the control.
- Color coding:

3 General information

3.1 Validation against XML-schema

Generated XML files can be validated against an XML schema. Skatteverket's schema layer is a common storage area which facilitates reuse and access of Skatteverket's public XML schemas. The schema is structured in the following way:

3.2 Character set

Skatteverket supports the UTF-8 character set for income statement files (8-bit Unicode transformation format).

3.3 Suffix

It has been mandatory in previous versions of the XML-files to use a suffix (only the suffix “ku:” until recently). This is, from schema version 2.0 and onward, not necessary. Files using a (any) suffix and files using no suffix will pass our validation. The header must state the suffix used or if the file is not using suffix. How this can be done is shown in appendix 4, Example files.

6 Form entries

The file can contain one or more form entries. The form element can have an attribute where the Skatteverket form number (SKV number) is entered in the area for income statements. For more information, see the Skatteverket web site (ref[1]), or chapter 7 in this document. The following diagram illustrates the hierarchy of the form entries.

6.1 Case information

The table column “Description” specifies how the elements should be applied for the income statements area.

Term/Field Description	Code	Element name in XML	No.	Type	Controls
					ID	Description
Equal to information providers Id number (UppgiftslamnarId) from the form element		Arendeagare	1	Identitet
Equal to income year (Inkomstar) from the form element		Period	1	Text20
Skatteverkets case number (do not use for income statements)		Arendenummer	0-1	Text13

6.2 Income statement forms

The element has an abstract subgroup called “Kontrolluppgift” that is exchanged for any of the different income statements types described in the following chapter. Certain elements require the fixed attribute “faltkod”. Information about which field code corresponds to which element is found in the table of each form type, and also in chapter 7 in this document.
